for JMB's brother making no mention of the American branch of the family in his genealogy and perhaps the abolition of slavery was a reason for JMB's grandfather migrating from Georgia to Scotland. Suffice to say that JMB would probably not have been an SAE founder without the wealth generated by his family's American connections and activities.

This study can only give a snapshot of the son of a local landowner who was an Edinburgh public accountant practicing at the time of the SAE foundation in 1854 and it is limited by the amount of archival evidence available. Nevertheless, it provides sufficient material to place JMB within a social context at that time and provides an insight about these early chartered accountants.
